APA Guide 7th edition

FORMATTING GUIDELINES

Font: To improve accessibility, the APA now accepts multiple fonts including 12-point Times New Roman, 11-point Calibri, 11-point Arial, 11-point Georgia, and 10-point Lucida Sans Unicode.

Spacing: Double space all text including title page, headings, footnotes, and reference material.

Margins: Leave a 1-inch margin on all sides of your document.

Alignment: With the exception of some headings and the title, the body of the text is aligned flush left.

Indentation: Indent the first line of every paragraph a half inch. For consistency, use the TAB key.

The latest APA publication manual advises that student title pages include seven elements:

1. A page number in the top right of the header.

   The following information should be centered vertically and positioned on the upper half of the page. Begin three or four lines from the top margin.

2. The full title of the paper in bold followed by one double spaced blank line

   - Capitalize the first word of the title or heading and of any subtitle or subheading; 2. Capitalize all “major” words, including the second part of hyphenated major words;
   - Capitalize all words of four letters or more.
3. The author or authors’ full name(s)

4. The college or institution attended (e.g. Mohawk Valley Community College)

5. The course number and name as they appear in institutional material

6. The course instructor, including preferred titles such as Dr. Katie or Professor Weismann

7. Due date in month, date, and year format (spell out the month)

NOTE: While most formal research papers require a title page, not all assignments that make use of APA guidelines do. When in doubt, ask your instructor.

For the title, use the boldface version of the font used throughout your paper.

Bojack Horseman: A Case for Borderline Personality Disorder

Jeremiah R. Stewart
Mohawk Valley Community College
PY 203: Abnormal Psychology
Dr. Nur
February 14, 2020

Add a double spaced blank line between the title and the byline.

Include the course number and name as they appear in institutional material.

Include your instructor’s name and preferred title as well as your paper’s due date.
NUMBERS

Use numerals to express the following |
• numbers above nine
• numbers that represent time, dates, ages, scores, specific sums of money, and points on a scale
• numbers before a unit of measurement

NUMERALS |
- 17 participants
- 1 year and 3 days
- $16 dollars
- 6 months old

Write out numbers |
• zero through nine. There are many rules about the expression of numbers. If you are unsure about how to express a number, consult the APA style blog or check with a librarian or writing consultant.

WHAT IS AN APA STYLE RUNNING HEAD?

The latest version of the APA manual indicates that student papers do not typically include a running head. Nonetheless, some instructors may choose to prepare you for publication by requiring one. A running head is an abbreviated title located in the header across from all page numbers.

An APA running head consists of an abbreviated version of a paper’s title typed in all capital letters and aligned flush left. If the original title is equal to or less than 50 characters (including spaces and punctuation), the full title may be used in the running head.

APA NO LONGER REQUIRES use of the label Running head on the first page of a document.

HOW TO INSERT AN APA STYLE RUNNING HEAD USING MICROSOFT WORD OR GOOGLE DOCS

1. Use the INSERT function in Microsoft Word or Google Docs to insert a page number in the
3. Press the CAPS LOCK key on your keyboard.

4. Type the shortened version of your title in all capital letters.
   - The shortened version of the title should reflect the work as a whole and will not necessarily be the first words of the title.
   - Do not use partial words. It is permissible to use the ampersand (&) in place of the word AND.
5. If using Microsoft Word, highlight the shortened title and use the WORD COUNT feature in the REVIEW TAB to ensure your title, including spaces and punctuation, is not more than fifty characters long.

6. Use the TAB key and spacebar to align the title to the left margin of the header. The page number should remain flush right on the same line as the running head.

7. Ensure the typeface and font size are consistent with those used throughout the paper (e.g. Times New Roman, 12pt.).

8. Close the header by clicking Close Header and Footer in Microsoft Word or double-clicking on the document.
The APA recommends the use of headings and subheadings to organize writing and enhance the readability of texts. While not appropriate for all writing that makes use of APA style guidelines, they are expected in many research papers. When uncertain about the use of headings, ask your instructor.

The APA provides guidelines for formatting up to five levels of headings. The heading structure always starts with the highest level (level 1) and progresses from the general to the particular.

Each level of heading has its own formatting specification.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Level 1: Causes of Child Abuse</th>
<th>Level 2: Effects of Child Abuse</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Short Term Effects of Child Abuse</td>
<td>Long Term Effects of Child Abuse</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Psychological Effects of Child Abuse</td>
<td>Behavioral Effects of Child Abuse</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aggression, Violence, and Criminal Behavior</td>
<td>High-Risk Sexual Behavior</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Prostitution</td>
<td>Sexually Transmitted Infections</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

See page 3 for guidelines on Title Case.
The example provides two samples of each heading type. Your paper may make use of more or fewer. Let clarity and your instructor’s directions guide your use of headings.

The parenthetical numbers correspond to the heading level and are for reference only.

ABSTRACT

An abstract is a brief summary of a journal article or paper. Abstracts allow readers to assess or get an overview of a text without reading it in its entirety. Like all summaries, abstracts follow the structure of the original material and outline its main points. Many student papers that make use of APA guidelines DO NOT require abstracts. If you are unsure, consult your instructor.

Formatting the Abstract

According to the APA, an abstract is generally a single un-indented paragraph between 150 and 250 words. It appears at the top of the page after the title page (on page 2) under the centered boldface heading: Abstract.

An abstract is sometimes followed by a list of italicized Keywords. This list of words is used for database indexing and is rarely seen in student papers.

Quotations

The APA requires quotation of all word-for-word material including oral instructions, test items, and any published matter. All quoted material must be accompanied by an in-text citation.

In-text citations are short references that appear in the body of a paper whenever quotes, paraphrases, or summaries are used. These short references are made up of specific source information, most commonly author(s), year of publication, and page number(s). This information keys or points to a full reference entry on an end-of-text reference page. Guidelines on in-text citations are covered in depth on pages 1116; reference page entries are covered on pages 18-33.

THIS SECTION MAKES USE OF IN-TEXT REFERENCES BUT FOCUSES ON HOW TO FORMAT SHORT AND LONG QUOTATIONS.

Short Quotations

If a quote is less than forty words, incorporate it into a sentence. See the SIGNAL PHRASE GUIDELINES handout and pages 12-17 for in-text citation guidelines. Enclose the quoted material in double quotation marks - “”. If the quoted material comes at the end of the sentence, place citation information before the closing punctuation mark.
Khantzian’s and Duncan’s theory, which presents addiction as “a self-regulation disorder wherein individuals self-medicate to manage their self-regulation issues” (Fletcher et al., 2011, p. 112) links drug use to a childhood history of neglect and abuse.

Kim and Koh’s (2018) investigation into the relationship between smartphone obsession and self esteem suggested that “individuals with low self-esteem may feel more anxious, and being anxious can increase one's obsession with smartphone use” (p. 269).

Quotes of forty or more words are called block quotations and are formatted differently than their shorter counterparts. When using block quotations follow the guidelines below:

- Retain double spacing.
- Block quotations appear on a new line and are indented half an inch.
- When block quotations include multiple paragraphs, new paragraphs are given an additional half inch indent on the first line.
- Block quotations do not make use of quotation marks.
- Citation information is included after the final punctuation.
- Colons are frequently used when introducing a block quotation. They are not required.
- Use block quotations sparingly.

Example of a block quotation

The distinction between spirituality and religiosity is further clarified by Miller and Thoresen: Spirituality is more concerned with how an individual has a personal relationship to larger transcendent realities, such as the universe or God, whereas religiosity is more concerned with how an individual experiences a transcendent being and how this is expressed in a community or social organization. (1999, p. 6)

TABLES AND FIGURES

Tables and figures can be used to support or illustrate information given in the main text. Tables are made up of numbers and/or text arranged in rows and columns. Figures include photographs, maps, charts, graphs, diagrams, etc.

Tables and figures are numbered separately and sequentially (Figure 1, Figure 2; Table 1, Table 2) in the boldface version of the font used throughout the document. The label is placed above both tables and figures (see Table 1) and is followed by a double-spaced blank line.
Tables and figures are titled. Titles are given in title case italics below the numbered label.

Notes are labeled and placed under the table or figure. Notes are not required but can be used to provide a brief explanation of a table or figure, to convey source information, and to explain any abbreviations or symbols that might be unclear to readers. If the table or figure is not original to the work, the note must indicate that it is reproduced or adapted from another source.

See the APA website for more information on tables and figures.

REFERENCE PAGE

The APA requires a list of sources at the end of papers. This list includes all retrievable sources used in the composition of the paper. The information on this list allows writers to credit sources and readers to find, evaluate, and make further use of those sources. Reference list entries are covered on pages 18 - 33.

This section focuses on what to include and how to order the entries and format the reference page.

What to include

• Every source you paraphrased, summarized, or quoted in the text.
• Do not include sources that you consulted but did not cite.
• Do not include personal communications or standard religious texts such as the Quran or Bible.

How to order the entries

• Reference entries are alphabetized by the first letter in the entry, generally an author’s last name.
• Reference entries that have no author or editor are alphabetized by title.
• When alphabetizing by title, ignore articles that begin the title (A, An, and The).
• When an entry starts with a number, alphabetize the entry based on how the number would appear if written.
• When an entry starts with a year, alphabetize the entry based on how the year would be spoken.

How to format the page

• The reference list comes after the final page of text.
• The list begins at the top of a consecutively numbered new page.
• The reference list is given the bold, centered heading: References.
• Reference entries are double-spaced with NO SPACE between entries.
Reference entries make use of a hanging indent that allows readers to easily identify entries based on in-text citation information.

HOW TO CREATE A HANGING INDENT IN MICROSOFT WORD

1. Select the text that you would like to apply the hanging indent to.
2. Press the CTRL key + T on your PC or the Command key + T on your Mac.

IF THAT DOES NOT WORK . . .

1. Select the reference entries.
2. On the Home tab, click the arrow in the bottom right of the Paragraph group.
3. In the Paragraph dialog box, under Indentation, on the Special dropdown, select Hanging.
4. Set the measurement to 0.5 under By.

HOW TO CREATE A HANGING INDENT IN GOOGLE DOCS:

1. Click and drag to select all of your reference entries.
2. Click the FORMAT tab and select ALIGN & INDENT.
3. Choose INDENTATION OPTIONS to open the indentation dialogue box.
4. In the indentation dialogue box, click the SPECIAL dropdown menu.
5. Select HANGING and specify a half inch indent (0.5).
TO CREDIT CONTRIBUTORS, APA REQUIRES A TWO PART SYSTEM. THAT SYSTEM USES (1) BRIEF IN-TEXT OR PARENTHETICAL CITATIONS THAT KEY TO OR POINT TO (2) A FULL LIST OF SOURCES IN THE FORM OF AN END-OF-TEXT REFERENCE PAGE.

Why?

Citation is often discussed in the context of avoiding plagiarism. It is true that using the words or ideas of others without crediting them is a serious academic offense. When one plagiarizes, one intentionally or unintentionally passes off the work of another as their own. Citations, however, also have a very collegial purpose.

Academic writing is a conversation between the writer and thinkers that have examined similar questions and topics. In-text citations act as a record of that conversation. They tell the reader who said what and when they said it. In doing this, they give credit to those who have helped the writer develop their understanding. They also allow readers to engage more deeply in the subject by pointing to reference page entries. These entries give readers all the information they need to find the sources the writer used.

IN-TEXT CITATIONS

In APA style writing, paraphrases, summaries and quotations all require the use of in-text citations.
• A paraphrase restates the source material in a new language. A paraphrase uses approximately the same number of words as the original.

• A summary condenses the source material to reflect its main idea(s). A summary uses significantly less words than the original.

• A quotation restates the source material using the exact language of that material.

What is included in the APA in-text citation?

APA in-text citations aim to answer three questions about the source material:

1. WHO: Most frequently reported as the author or authors’ last name(s)
2. WHEN: Most frequently reported as the year of publication
3. WHERE: Most frequently reported as a page (or paragraph) number

NOTE: Quotations require the use of page numbers when those numbers are available. Paraphrases and summaries do not require them, but the APA recommends the use of page numbers for all in-text citations.

How Does Citation Information Appear in the Text?

To integrate this information, APA style writing makes use of both signal phrases and parenthetical citations. These are frequently used in combination.

Signal phrases (also known as attributive tags or narrative citation) signal to the reader that the idea or language being used is from an outside source. Signal phrases generally use the author(s) name(s) and a verb to do this. They appear in the same sentence as the source material, either directly before or after that material. See the SIGNAL PHRASE GUIDELINES handout for guidelines and a list of signal phrase verbs.

Parenthetical citations make use of parentheses () to provide source information. They are placed as close to the cited material as possible. Note that the author’s last name, year, and page number are sometimes placed in a single set of parentheses and sometimes placed in separate parentheses.

- In an effort to explain the cultural variations in same-family reincarnation claims, Masayuki (2017) theorized that “culturally prescribed ideas about reincarnation would be carried into death and would influence decisions made in the postmortem state” (p. 552).

- Researchers exploring same-family reincarnation claims have noted that the manner of death seems to influence this pattern, in particular that violent death seems to make same-family reincarnation claims less likely (Masayuki, 2017, p. 553).

Formatting the Parenthetical Citations:

The APA requires the use of a comma between the major elements of a parenthetical citation. Use a p. to indicate a single page number, pp. for a page range, and para. for a paragraph number. If no page number is given, use headings and/or count paragraphs to direct your reader to the information.

- (Author’s Last Name, Year of publication, p. #).
• (Giovanni, 2019, Discussion sec., para 1). (Harlin, 1999, “Cerebral Atrophy in Canines,” para. 11).

General Rules:

1. Author Named in a signal phrase

   QUOTATION

   • Include the date of publication in parentheses directly after the author’s name.
   • Include the paragraph or page number in parentheses as close to the closing quotation mark as possible. See page 15 if no page number is given.
   • It is acceptable to place the parentheses mid-sentence.

   Tucker (2016) noted two-year-old James Leininger’s habit of “slamming his toy plane nose first into the family coffee table” (p. 201).

   SUMMARY OR PARAPHRASE

   • As with a quotation, include the date of publication in parentheses directly after the author’s name.
   • Page numbers are recommended but not required for paraphrases and summaries.
   • If you use a page number, place it in the parentheses directly after the author’s name along with the date.

   Tucker (2016, p. 201) described two-year-old James Leininger’s actions as post-traumatic play.

2. Author named in parenthesis

   If the author’s name is not included in the sentence, put the name in parentheses – along with the year of publication and any page or paragraph number. The parentheses should be placed as close to the source information as possible. Be sure to separate each element of the parenthetical citation with a comma.

   QUOTATION

   Parenthetical information can be broken up into multiple sets of parentheses or placed in a single set.
Despite his youth and 1998 birth year, James was said to have “knowledge about World War II planes in general and about life on Natoma Bay” in particular (Tucker, 2016, p. 203).

The current Director of the Division for Perceptual Studies (Tucker, 2016) pointed out that “no television programs focusing on Natoma Bay or James Huston appear to have been made” (p. 206).

SUMMARY OR PARAPHRASE

- Provide all in-text citation information in one parentheses. Parentheses may be placed either before or after the summary or paraphrase.

  James Leininger’s father was reportedly viewing a book on Iwo Jima when the toddler pointed to a photograph and told his father that he had died there (Tucker, 2016, p. 201).

3. Authors with the same last name

   When two or more authors have the same last name, use initials to distinguish between the authors in all pertinent in-text citations.

   As an historical examination of the development and deployment of the atomic bomb reveals, no single person made the “decision to drop” (K. T. Erikson, 1985, p. 65).

4. Two authors

   When a work is authored by two individuals, mention both each time the work is cited. Use and when the authors are mentioned in a signal phrase, and an ampersand ( & ) when the authors are named in a parenthetical citation.

   Greenberger and O’Neil’s (1992, p. 445) data supports the view that, over time, less educated mothers who work outside the home experience a depletion of resources that may negatively impact their children.

   The authors noted that maternal employment often increases paternal participation in childcare and that increased participation may lead fathers’ to experience “a broader sampling of their child's behavior, including behavior that is problematic” (Greenberger & O’Neil, 1985, p. 447).

5. Three or more authors
If a source has three or more authors, any signal phrase or parenthetical citation will include only the first author’s last name followed by the abbreviation et al. from the Latin phrase et alia meaning “and others”.

Ottisova et al. (2018, p. 2) pointed out the high rates of PTSD, depression, anxiety, and self-harm among trafficked children.

Overdoses are now the nation’s leading cause of preventable deaths (Horon et al., 2018, p. 780).

6. Organization or government as author

Some sources do not list an individual author or authors. These sources may have an organization, corporation, association, or government agency as their author. In these cases, the group’s name can be used in place of an author’s name in signal phrases and parenthetical citations.

If the group’s abbreviation is well-known, give the full name and the abbreviation in brackets in the first parenthetical citation. Include the abbreviation with the date in narrative citation (see chart on page 17 for an example). Subsequent citations use the abbreviation on its own.

FIRST IN-TEXT CITATION

(National Institute of Mental Health [NIHM], 2011, p. 115)

SUBSEQUENT IN-TEXT CITATIONS

(NIMH, 2011, p. 121)

7. Unknown author

Reference works, legal materials, and newspaper editorials frequently appear without an author. If no author is given and the source has not been authored by an agency or organization (see above) use the source’s title in in-text citations. In parenthetical references long titles can be shortened to the first few words of the reference list entry.

Although in the reference list, sentence case capitalization is used for standalone sources like books (A tree grows in Brooklyn) and part-of-a-whole sources like articles (A call to make schools safe zones, not war zones), in in-text citations, title case capitalization is used for both types of sources (A Tree Grows in Brooklyn; “A Call to Make Schools Safe Zones, Not War Zones”). See page 3 for title case rules.

According to Brewer's Dictionary of Phrase and Fable (1952) abracadabra is “a cabalistic charm said to be made up from the initials of the Hebrew words Ab (Father), Ben (Son), and Ruach ACadsch (Holy Spirit)” (p. 3).
A powerful editorial asserted that the opioid crisis can be curtailed by providing safe spaces and medical supervision for users (“Safe Injection,” 2018).

8. No date

If no publication date is available for the source, use the abbreviation n.d. for no date.

• (“United Arab Emirates Architecture,” n.d.)

9. Two or more works cited together

If a sentence makes use of more than one source, list the sources in parentheses in alphabetical order. Separate sources with a semicolon.

Numerous studies have highlighted the benefits of educating incarcerated men (Lochner & Moretti, 2004; Esperian, 2010; Hughes, 2012; Utheim, 2017).

10. Source quoted in another source

If you cite a source that was quoted in another source, add the phrase as cited in before the secondary source information in your parenthetical reference.

To explain his unorthodox approach to studying criminal genius, the author points to a desire to convey what Katz refers to as “the moral and sensual attractions of doing evil” (as cited in Oleson, 2004, p. 194).

11. Quote from Audio Visual Material

When quoting from audio-visual material, in lieu of a page number, provide a timestamp for the beginning of the quoted material.

Fleishmann (2014) noted that 98-99% of people who report Near Death Experience, perceive the dark, confined space as comforting, but 1-2% report “terrible noises, terrible smells, and terrible creatures” (9:41).

12. Work without page numbers

Many electronic documents do not have page numbers. Some of these (legal documents, in particular) have paragraph numbers. If paragraphs are numbered, use these in the parenthetical citation with the abbreviation para. in place of p.

… (Duvernoy, 1977, para. 11).

If no page or paragraph numbers are given, use heading title (e.g. Discussion sec.) and count paragraphs to direct the reader to the relevant source information.
It is permissible to shorten long heading titles. When using a shortened heading title, place the shortened version in quotation marks.

… (Eckernkamp, 2013, “Relationships,” para. 5).

- The full heading of this section is Relationships between High IQ and Social Isolation

13. An entire work

If you would like to point the reader to an entire work, simply name the author and year in a signal phrase or in a parenthetical reference. Do not give page numbers.

Bronfenbrenner’s (1981) seminal work offered an original way of understanding human development.

14. An entire website

Most websites consist of many web pages. Most references to online works reference these pages. Still, there are occasions when you may want to call the reader’s attention to an entire website. To do this, provide the site’s URL in the text. It is not necessary to include the site again on the reference page. Although it offers sleek infographics and disturbing statistics, the government website provides startlingly little information on the government’s response to the opioid crisis (https://www.opioids.gov).

15. Personal communication

If your writing references an email, text message, telephone conversation, letter, non-archived discussion groups or message board, it is unlikely that your reader will be able to access your source. For this reason, personal communications are not included on the reference page. These sources do, however, receive in text citation. In-text citations for personal communications include the author’s initial(s), the author’s last name, the phrase personal communication, and the full date of the communication in month day, year format.

Scully noted that the book was conceived during an undergraduate history course on the history of madness in America entitled Who’s Crazy Now? (E. Scully, personal communication, October 11, 2003).

H. A. Murray (personal communication, July 22, 1985) acknowledged that Morgan had not received proper credit for her contribution to the Thematic Apperception Test.

REFERENCE PAGE ENTRIES

The American Psychological Association (APA) style requires (1) a list of complete source information at the end of the text in the form of a reference page and (2) brief in-text documentation of sources. This section provides guidelines for constructing reference page entries for the most frequently used reference types. It is based on the 6th ed. of the APA style guide (2010). For sources not covered, visit www.apastyle.org.
Basic structure entry format

The information required for a reference page entry aims to answer: who, when, what, where, and, with some online sources, how. Most entries can be arranged by asking those questions in that order.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Who</th>
<th>When</th>
<th>What</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

The answers generally take the following forms:

WHO: Creator(s) of the work, usually in the form of name(s)
- Authors’ names are inverted throughout the reference list.
- First names are omitted in favor of first and, when given, middle initials. E.G. Doe, J. J.

WHEN: Date of publication
- The date of publication is given in parentheses after the final author.

For rules on formatting the reference list and hanging indent directions, see page 10.
- Many sources require that you list only the year, others require the month or day and month.

WHAT: Title of the work
- Article and chapter titles, books and reports use sentence case capitalization and plain text.
- Titles of webpages are given in sentence case capitalization and italicized.

WHERE: Publication information

Periodicals such as journals, newsletters and magazines:
- Periodical titles use title case capitalization and are italicized. See pg. 3 for title case capitalization guidelines.
- Give the volume number in italics after the periodical’s title. If available, give the issue number in parentheses after the volume.
- List the page or page range on which the source material appears.

Books and reports
- APA no longer requires publication location for books or reports.
- Give the brief form of the publisher’s name. Do not include words like Publishers, Co., and Inc.

Websites
- Titles of websites are given in plain text with sentence case capitalization.
HOW: Online source identifiers

- Tell the reader how to access online sources by providing a DOI (digital object identifier) when one is available. In select cases, include a URL. See source types.
- Do not end this section with a period.

Author Types

1. One author
   - Give the author’s surname followed by their first and, if present, second initial.
   - Do not include degrees (PhD, M.D., etcetera)
   - TEMPLATE: Author, A. A.  SAMPLE: Smith, J. L.

2. Two authors
   - List both authors with the surname before initials. Separate the names with a comma and an ampersand (&).

3. Three to twenty authors
   - TEMPLATE: Author, A. A., & Author, B. B.
   - SAMPLE: Smith, J. L., & Jones, S. A.

   List up to twenty authors by last name and initials. Separate names with commas, and place an ampersand (&) before the final name.

   - SAMPLE: Smith, J. L., Jones, S. A., & Evans, Y. E.

4. More than twenty authors

   List the first nineteen authors by last name and initials. Separate authors’ names with a comma.
   After the nineteenth author's name, use an ellipsis ( . . . ) and give the final author’s name. There should be no more than twenty names.

5. Two or more works by the same author

   Use the author's name for all entries and list the entries by the year (earliest comes first).

6. Two or more works by the same author in the same year

If you are using more than one reference by the same author published in the same year, organize them in the reference list alphabetically by the title of the source. Assign letter suffixes to each year based on this alphabetization. Refer to these sources in the text as they appear in your reference list, e.g.: "Berdnt (1981a) makes similar claims..."

SAMPLE:

7. Organization/ government as the author

Sometimes credit for a source is given to an entire organization rather than an individual or individuals. When this occurs, list the organization or government in the space designated for the author.

SAMPLE TEMPLATE book by organization

Organization’s Name or Government Agency. (Year of Publication). Title of work. Publisher.

9. Author as publisher

Books and reports require a source’s author and publisher. When the author of a source is a government or organization, there is a good chance that the organization or government is also the publisher. When this occurs, list the organization or government as the author and omit the publisher from the reference.

- SAMPLE with author as publisher

10. Author and editor

Some works – typically books – have both an author and an editor. In a work with both an author and an editor, the editor’s name is given in parentheses after the title of the work. Unlike the author, the initials precede the surname. The editor’s name is followed by a comma and the abbreviation Ed. In the case of multiple editors, Eds. is used. The section is finished with a period.
11. Unknown author

When the author is unknown, begin the entry with the title of the work.

BOOK WITH UNKNOWN AUTHOR

NEWS ARTICLE WITH AN UNKNOWN AUTHOR

PERIODICALS- ONLINE AND PRINT

Journal article formatting notes

- Use sentence case capitalization for article titles.
- Use title case capitalization for the journal title. See page 3.
- Journal titles and volume numbers are italicized.
- Digital object identifiers (DOIs) are provided whenever available for both online and print sources.
- DOIs are given as web addresses and must include the http:// or https:// protocol, e.g. https://doi.org/10.1037/arc0000014 in plain or colored and underlined text.
- If the work will be read online, links should be live.
- Unless there is no publication date or the content is likely to change, the phrase Retrieved from is no longer used before URLs.

Journal article with DOI

- URLs should link to the specific source document whenever possible.

TEMPLATE

Sampling

Journal article from a database with no DOI

APA style rarely requires the name of a specific database or makes use of URLs generated by databases.

FOR MOST ARTICLES, if there is no DOI, end the entry after the page range as you would for a print article with no DOI.

TEMPLATE

Author, A. A. (Year of publication). Title of article. Title of Journal, volume #(issue #, if available), page range.

SAMPLE

When to include the database

For articles or reports in databases which publish works not available elsewhere, after the page range include:
- the name of the database in italics
- a retrieval date if the information is designed to change over time
- if it is not session specific and does not require a login, a URL to the article OR a URL to the database login page

Print journal article without DOI

Print journal articles without DOIs look like those with a DOI but end after the page range.

MAGAZINE ARTICLES- ONLINE/PRINT

- If a magazine is published weekly, include the day and month of publication.

Magazine article formatting notes

- If a magazine is published monthly or once every two months, include the month(s) of publication.
- If no author is given, begin with the article’s title followed by the date of publication.
- For online articles, 7th edition guidelines call for a URL that links to the specific article.
- If volume, issue, or page numbers are unavailable, skip those elements.

BOOK FORMATTING NOTES | PRINT OR ONLINE

1. Use sentence case capitalization for titles and subtitles.

2. If the book has been reprinted, list only the most recent year.

3. Give the publisher in as brief a form as possible. Write out the names of corporations, associations, and university presses, but omit terms like Publishers, Co. and Inc. Retain Books and Press.

4. Publication locations are no longer included in references for books.

5. For an edition other than the first, add the edition name or number in parentheses after the title.

6. If your source is a multivolume work, place the abbreviation Vol. or Vols. and the volume number(s) in parentheses after the title of the work. For example: (Vol. 3). (12th ed., Vol. 3).
